A Great Opportunity

Nothing could be more cheering to Winnipeg and the whole Canadian West than the intimation that this year will witness an exceptionally heavy influx of Americans into this Western country. The West may have its temporary set-backs and reverses, as every country and every community must have, but nothing can retard the development and prosperity of Western Canada so long as people with money continue to accredit.

We do not, at the present time, require emigrants for the mere sake of swelling our population. We do not require artisans and laborers whose only capital is a capacity for work. There are times at which this class of people can be accommodated, but just now the crying need of Western Canada is people with enough money to buy homesteads and to till the fertile soil, which is within the reach of men of moderate means. The settlers we have received in the past from the United States have shown themselves familiar with the methods of farming which succeed in Western Canada.
With the proceeds of the sales of small farms in the United States they can buy large farms in Western Canada infinitely more productive and remunerative.

Western Canada wants these people more now perhaps than at any period in her history. And it is a most favorable period to procure them. The United States is passing through a most critical stage in its history. Taxation is heavy; its currency is discredited; its banks and financial institutions have ceased to justify public confidence. The time has arrived with the Republic when the profits of a man's toil deposited with banks and financial institutions are not available when they are wanted.

The United States may or may not entirely recover from these conditions. It is to be hoped that they will recover. What is important to Canada, however, is the fact that thousands of Americans who have made for themselves homes in the United States are discontented and distrustful. Many of them have sent their savings to Canada to be deposited in banks whose stability is not open to question. Many of them are looking towards Western Canada as a desirable field for settlement.

It would be criminal negligence on the part of Canada to ignore these conditions. We should reach out for these people. We should spare no effort or expense to show them the advantages which Western Canada has to offer. It is quite possible that, in contemplation of our own trivial troubles, we have lost sight of most desirable people who are anxious to escape large ones.

The plain fact remains that this is not the occasion for marking time in the promotion of emigration to Canada from the United States.
The opportunity of a century is before us now, and we should lose no time in taking advantage of it.—

Serious Charge Against Banks

Loans Amount to Fifth of Paid-Up Capital

Big Banks Take Hold of the West
By the Throat

Ottawa, Ontario, March 3rd.
—R. A. Pringle, of Cornwall, moved that in the opinion of this House it is an opportune time to consider the advisability of amending and revising the Banking Act, and that following among other amendments should receive consideration.

1. To provide government inspection.
2. To provide that stringent regulations as to circulation.
3. To make provisions as to percentage on capital and reserves that may be loaned to any one borrower.
4. To make provision for the percentage that a bank may loan to its combined directors.
5. To limit the amount of interest or discount that banks may contract for.
6. To revise the powers of the Bankers' Association.

Referring to the present financial stringency Mr. Pringle admitted that there were many causes, but suggested the following:

Loss from destruction of capital;
by the Boer, Russian-Japanese and Spanish-American wars; and San Francisco earthquake which he estimated at five billion dollars. The remedy, he said, was retrenchment.
He pointed out that the paid-up capital of the banks had increased in ten years by $35,000,000 and their reserves by $42,000,000.

The increase in deposits showed the thriftiness of the people, but the recent bank failures have called attention to the need of amendment of the Banking Act.

Proceeding, Mr. Pringle declared that in the West the people were taken by the throat by the larger banks, who require their capital in the East, and have been told that they have no money for moving the crops. Such a condition could not have occurred in the United States.

In dealing with the question of loans to the directors Mr. Pringle said that at the present time the directors have loans amounting to one-fifth of the paid-up capital. He declared that the amendments he advocated would be in the interests of the public, and he declared that while the banks are strong the people of the country are stronger, and they will see that the changes are made in the present law.

At the evening session Mr. Pringle charged the Bank of Commerce with being the greatest gambling institution in the country. The Hon. Geo.
A. Cox and Byron E. Walker, he said, had joined in a pool to gamble on the stock market. The time had come, he declared, when great banks like the Bank of Commerce should be stopped from speculating. The Government, he contended, should control the circulation and not, as at present, permit the banks to issue as much as their paid-up capital. Not more than 10% of the capital and reserves should be loaned to any one borrower.

The Sovereign Bank went to the wall because it loaned everything to two concerns. He charged that the banks were fixing the interest as high as 10% in Western Canada and as high as 24% in the Yukon.

The Hon. W. S. Fielding then outlined the Government's attitude in the Pringle proposal. He said it was the custom in Canada to revise the Banking Act every ten years. It was quite possible that before the end of the present session the Government might propose some slight changes in the Banking Act, but, in view of the fact that all the bank charters expired in 1911, radical amendments should not be made for two sessions. Then revisions could be made in the light of the new knowledge gained.

Government Will Buy BELL COMPANY'S SYSTEM

Competent Experts Now Making a Valuation of Exchanges & Lines
Throughout the Province

PARTICULARS EXPECTED SHORTLY

Edmonton, Feb. 28th.—For the past week the employees of the local Government have been engaged in examining the Bell telephone lines in Alberta, and it is said that in a short time the Government will make an offer for the purchase of the system, which the Bell people say is in a first-class condition.

The Hon. W. H. Cushing corroborated the information that the local Government will make an offer, but he was not yet in a position to give further particulars, as a report has not yet been made on the system by the Government experts. The Bell telephone line in Alberta extends from Edmonton through Calgary to Macleod, to Lethbridge, and from that place south-west to Cardston.
Roughly speaking it is 300 or 400 miles in length. They have local exchanges in the cities of Wetaski-win, Red Deer, Calgary, Macleod, Lethbridge, Cardston and several other small towns along the line.

PROVINCE WELL COVERED.

At the present time the Alberta Government have lines running east from Edmonton to Lloydminster, connecting with the Bell line at Edmonton; and a short line between Stoney Plain and Lake Wabamun.
Between Edmonton and Calgary they have three branch lines, all of which connect with the Bell line. One of these runs from Wetaskiwin east to Deyland; another from Lacombe east to Stettin; and a third from Calgary west to Banff. South of Calgary the Government line runs west from Macleod to Frank. Several local exchanges have also been established in some of the towns through which the Government line passes.

With the acquisition of the Bell lines the Government would own a fairly complete network of telephones connecting all the larger points in the provinces.

Minna Reed almost ran down the steps from the house bearing the sign "Mrs. Voiret, Clairvoyant." The lady's communications had opened all her pre-conceived plans and ideas. Her mother had always opposed her trying anything of the kind, but when she saw the sign an overwhelming desire to inquire into things unknown had beset her. The rest of the party had gone down to the beach, and after staying in her room at the summer hotel for an hour with a headache she had slipped out to buy a fascinating kiplimo she had seen in a Japanese store the day before. The clairvoyant's sign had caught her eye, and for a whole hour she had sat in the darkened, stuffy little room with her nerves all at strained attention.

She went back to her room and, waiting straight to the dresser, looked longingly at the picture of a frank boyish face surrounded by a little plain gold frame.

"I never would have thought it," she whispered. "I thought you were the truest, noblest thing on earth. And she said the man with black eyes, now one of my circle of acquaintances, was deceitful to the core and that if I did not separate his path from mine he would prove the blighting sorrow of my life. Jimmy, dear, it seems impossible to believe you could bring sorrow into any one's life, but it must have been you she meant, for you are the only man of my acquaintance who has black eyes." And, being only nineteen and believing she had come face to face with the big sorrow of her life, she threw herself down on the bed and sobbed because she felt that she must immediately take steps to separate Jimmy Kent's path from hers—Jimmy, who had lent her his red hat to play with the very first day she went to kindergarten.

James Kent, unconscious of the heavy cloud of suspicion hovering over him, came from his ocean swim and lay on the sand, hoping Minna would get over her headache and come down to the beach. Finally, unburdened and glowing, he went back to the hotel and found her on the veranda, gazing listlessly at the sea.

"Is it as bad as all that, little girl? It is the most forlorn looking specimen I ever saw," he said as he sat on the porch rail and eyed her commiseratingly.

Minna, seeing the sympathy in his eyes, wished fervently that they were any other color than black.

"What on earth made you have black eyes, Jimmy? I dislike them so," she said petulantly.

Jimmy opened the offending orbs very wide in his surprise.

"By Jove, you are a queer one, Minna! You told me yesterday you were on the beach that I had the most beautiful eyes you ever saw. Positively made me blush and you told me to go and stand to sleep in them last night lest I should spoil 'em. And now—Minna, you haven't met any fellow with gray eyes, have you?" he asked suspiciously.

"No, I haven't," indignantly, "but black eyes are treacherous—and I never could trust them."

Whether they were treacherous or not was left an open question, but they certainly proved persuasive, and finally Jimmy was in possession of the whole story.

"Minna Reed, you ought to be ashamed of yourself! Do look like a blighting sorrow!" mimicking her, he said, "I might mistake for a prize fighter," exhibiting his muscular arm with pride, "but I blamed if I'd know how to stand up in the blighting sorrow business."

Minna, anxious to believe, still looked dubious.

"If your eyes only weren't black," she sighed.

"Now, look here, my child. I'd get a special act of congress to change mine to suit you, but I can't. I've done everything to please you my life. Why will you believe that utter rot? Did she tell you anything, any little thing, you absolutely knew was true?" Jimmy was in training for a lawyer and wanted to contest all evidence in the case.

"She told me my name and age," triumphantly.

"Didn't you have to write it on a piece of paper first, my child? It's all plain bungles. She didn't see it—how silly she didn't. I folded it tightly and put it on the table, and she sat and toyed with it while she talked."

"The mischief she didn't see it!" growled Jimmy. "Anything else?"

"She said I had the most beautiful eyes she ever saw," said Mary, who had spirit land that was trying to guide her, hesitatingly.

"See there! You never had an Aunt Mary in your life! It's all plain bungles." Jimmy spoke with the satisfaction of one willing to leave his case in the hands of an intelligent jury.

"No, I never had, but mamma had, and the clairvoyant said Aunt Mary and great-aunts were all the same in the spirit world."

Jimmy positively growled with disgust.

"She might safely bit on an Aunt Mary. Nearly everybody living has an Aunt or great-aunt or great-great-great-great Aunt Mary. But she had no business fooling with my eyes."

He sat sulkily on the bed, then grunted with a thought that made him wonder if he would not some day bear to the shame of the metaphysical the same relation that Edison bears to things physical.

"Young woman, I would not take a populist vendue upon my eyes from my own occult. Neither will I have them condemned by any one clairvoyant. I demand a consultation. If I get the party looking all the way to go to another clairvoyant this evening," he demanded.

"I would be so glad to find that the first one was mistaken," she said fervently.

It was a very busy evening for Mr. Kent. Finally he found a seersucker suit, perfectly good natured and pliable to fill his requirements.

"Hemmenen, you are to entirely free your mind from the idea. I am not in third. You couldn't fail to know her anyway. She's the prettiest one in the bunch. It's cheap at $10, and if she gets over her fear of black eyes, by Jove, I'll send you another tenner tomorrow." And Mme. Ardetta, enthusiastic under the powerful stimulus, promised to do her best.

That night when the moon cast a long path of light over the waves a couple of far down the beach a light removed from the crowd.

"She told me my name without my writing it!" Minna said in awed tones. "I must have done it. I've lost faith in me never to have any confidence in fakes that made me write questions and fold them on a table; that they had black papers folded—just like them, and when they were trying with the ones I wrote that they would substitute the blank one and leave it on the table and take mine in their hand under the edge of the table and read it. That's exactly what that first woman must have done. I've lost faith in her entirely, and Jimmy, boy, she said that the only person I need avoid and be suspicious of was a blond man with a Vandyke beard."

Young Mr. Kent stroked his beardless chin. "Thank heaven I haven't a blond Vandyke," he said proudly. "Did you know I was once told that I was a fake, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases."

"Not exactly, but she said that my real father was a man I had never known. I've lost faith in her. Now, that," said Mr. Kent, with great gratification, "suits me exactly. I'd rather have a man like that than a blighting sorrow. He joyfully possessed himself of the girl's hands, and she had evidently lost all fear of treachery."

Afterward, with her head resting comfortably against his tuxedo shoulder, she spoke musically. "She said that the greatest trial of her life was that there were so many fakes that brought discredit upon her glorious profession."

"After you mind, little girl; I'm not so easily imposed upon, and you'll have me with you all through life to help pick out the good from the bad and treacherous Mr. Kent lifted her face until he could look adoringly into it."

"The moon, as if by special contract, came from a cloud at just the right moment, and she saw his expression."

"Jimmy, I don't believe any one else ever had such wonderfully honest eyes," she said happily.

THE NIGHTINGALE.

Coleridge's Defense of the Songster as Not a Melancholy Bird.

The traditional view of the nightingale's song is supremely fitting to the mood of the bird in the last night of its life. Here the poet finds the forlorn bird, with her breast up till a thorn, earnestly pouring forth her last notes. Milton in his juvenile sonnet strophes the ineffable singer as giving forth notes that portend sadness in love, and Coleridge, to describe sober pleasures in "Il Penseroso" he appropriately finds the same strains "most musical, most melancholy."

A melancholy bird? Oh, the thought in nature that is so melancholy, but some night wandering man whose heart was pierced.

With the assurance of a grievous wrong.

And so, poor wretch, filled all things with And made all gentle sounds talk back the tale.

Of his own sorrow, he, and such as he, First named them, notes a melancholy strain.

Annotating this, the poet further illustrates his philosophic acuteness and takes the opportunity of expressing his loyalty to his eminent poetical predecessor.

"This passage in Milton," the note runs, "possesses an excellence far superior to that of mere description. It is spoken in the character of the melancholy man and has therefore a dramatic power. The author makes his remark to us in the guise of a charge of having alluded with levity to a line in Milton, a charge than which none could be more painful to the poet, except the charge of having ridiculed his Bible."

In a letter to Christopher North, Wordsworth refers to the "false note" in the nightingale's song and expresses his belief that Coleridge's poem, with its theory that "in nature there is nothing melancholy," will in all likelihood "contribute greatly to rectify these." In his own poem "Enterprise" he touches on the same point and alludes to the nightingale as "the sweet bird, misnamed the melancholy." It is hardly necessary to add that Keats in his great ode "To a Nightingale" rises to exquisite rapture over the happiness manifested in the singing of the "light winged dryad of the trees."—London Notes and Queries.

AIDING NATURE

Applying Powder With Soft Cloth

IN THESE days any woman can be good looking. It is only the careless woman who is unattractive. The plain woman of a generation ago worried herself sick over the plainness which she did not know how to prevent. She was plain and she realized it, and she couldn't do anything to help the situation.

She lived as a plain woman devoid of any attention. She was painfully conscious of her plainness, and resigned herself to the fate of being poor in feature, mallow in complexion and ill-favored all along the line of personal charm.

Only at short a time as a generation ago the woman caught with powder upon her nose, or even a powder box tucked away in some remote corner of her bureau, was stamped as not being desirable.

The woman who rouged was outside the range of all social position. As for the eyebrow pencil and the little blue pencil for the veins in the neck, the washes for the arms, the creams, the toilet waters and the thousand and one things that women of today have, they were considered too dreadful and acclimated to be mentioned out loud.

To use them would put one down as utterly devoid of all the ladylike attributes. CHANGE IN SENTIMENT

But a great change has come over this one time popular sentiment.

The only foolish thing about beautifying this generation is the woman who doesn't pay any attention to it. Powder rubbed into the skin is a good thing.

It preserves the cuticle and keeps the skin firm when exposed to the winds. That is, if a pure rice powder is used. But if enough of the powder is used to be visible it is a hideous thing.

Women who powder so that the powder is visible make a great mistake. It is a case of little being good and too much being good for nothing.

The whole thing in the proper use of make-up and cosmetics has dwindled down to knowing how much to use, what kind to use, when to use them, and how to use them.

All sorts of cosmetics are offered. It is simply a matter of taking a choice. It is now generally recognized that rouge used in moderation and with the greatest caution, and also with a little cream powder, gives a very good effect, particularly so in the evening, when one is tired and lacks color.

While it is no longer considered wrong to use rouge it is certainly in mighty poor taste if the rouge is applied so as to tell of its presence. There are cases where a little can be used to advantage and without violating any of the laws of propriety or tradition, but it must be used sparingly and with the greatest of caution.

A slight touch should be put on the chin and tips of the ears.

On the cheek, to have a natural look.

It must be applied so that a little white space is left below the cheek bone and the rouge should be very carefully blended in.

A woman cannot make up as if she were going on the stage.

That is absolutely fatal. Every woman should suggest distinctness and refinement. That is impossible when the cheeks are heavily rouged and the complexion of chalky whiteness.

But there is a different kind of make-up process, which is permissible because it cannot possibly be detected. It is a dexterous lightening up of the face and the skin, and there is nothing coarse or repellent about it.

The complexion is thoroughly improved, a good face cream applied and the surface wiped well with a bit of oil, soft lips.

The slightest suggestion of rouge is applied to the cheeks and lips. After that a heavy powder of exactly the right shade for the complexion is rubbed in well.

The eyebrows are dusted with the eyebrow brush, a bit of violet water is applied to the temples and the hair dressed perfectly.

The before and after pictures are really most surprising in contrast. We cannot always leave our appearance to nature alone, for sometimes nature seems to forget us and denies us the great gift—a good complexion.

There are many methods to touch up the hair and put red glints to lifeless locks.

The hair is shampooed and a liquid and paste made by boiling henna leaves in water is applied. This mixture is let dry on the hair, it is then shampooed again with soap and hot water.

The henna is absolutely harmless, and makes only the slightest change in the color of the hair.

The woman of today says to herself, "Why am I not attractive and what can I do to make myself so?"

IMPORTANT DETAILS

"Is my hair the right shade, and do I keep it properly groomed? How about my eyebrows; wouldn't a little touching up improve them? Are my nails as beautifully tended to as they should be? Is my skin nice and clean, and are the pores in a good condition, or have I neglected my skin and allowed it to become clogged? Are my teeth pretty and white and even and well cared for? Do I understand how to wash my face and apply cream properly, so that the skin will be pure without an open pore?" She continues questioning herself until matters are solved to her satisfaction, then she right-about faces and starts to reform.

On every woman's dressing table should be a jar of some good skin food for nightly use, a good face cream for daytime, powder, and all the possible things that will aid her in being attractive looking.

The women of today care more for their looks than they used to. The time was when a woman wouldn't exert herself to be pretty.

Nowadays, a woman realizes that she might as well be dead and buried as alive and ugly.

TIMELY ADVICE TO CORRESPONDENTS BY MRS. SYMES

To Acquire Flesh

E. L. M.—A thin person should take sufficient exercise to digest all kinds of starchy foods; plenty of bread and cereals, all kinds of meat but veal and pork, all sweet fruits and an abundance of water.

The Vacuum tonic will help any thin woman to gain flesh and fill out the hollows of neck and shoulders. The formula is as follows: Fluid extract of ginseng, two and one-half drams; lactophosphate of lime, two and one-half drams; tincture of fenel, two and one-half drams; simple syrup, twelve ounces. The dose is two spoonfuls with water before or after each meal.

How to Apply Face Cream

DISCOURAGED—The skin must be perfectly dry before any oil application is put on. Oils and waters will not mix, and cosmetics put on wet skin are cosmetics wasted.

It is first necessary to bathe away all dust and impurities with hot water and soap, rinse in hot water, and then the important thing is to have the skin absolutely dry before applying the cream.

Formula for Toothpowder

EDITH M.—A simple formula for tooth powder is this: Four ounces of powdered precipitated chalk; one ounce of powdered noryl; one ounce of pulverized orris; two ounces of pulverized borax. Mix and sift several times through bolting cloth. Use a firm brush when cleaning the teeth. Remove all foreign particles with dental floss. Twice a year have your dentist scrape away the tartar, which is sure to form, in spite of all care.

A Good Nail Powder

ALICE—A good nail powder can be made by mixing two ounces of powdered pumice stone and one-half ounce of powdered talcum.

Dip an ordinary wood stick into the powder of hydrogen, then in the pumice mixture and rub carefully about the edges of the nail.

This will remove every discoloration.

Ointment for Facial Eruptions

DESPAIR—Here is an ointment that is very good to heal facial eruptions: Five grains of lanolin, five grains of oil of sweet almonds, five grains of sulphur precipitate, two and one-half grains of zinc, ten drops of extract of violet.

While using this cream, do not use a complexion brush, but a good washcloth instead.

Treatment for Lines Across the Forehead

L. L.—Anoint the skin with orange skin food. Place the forefinger tips of either hand directly across the forehead in the center. With one hand rub upward, and with the other rub downward; the motion being like that of smoothing with two flatirons, one going in one direction, and the other in another. For the lines about the eyes: Place the first finger on the eyelid, close to the nose; send it out just beyond the eye and going back underneath. Rub wrinkles out of the neck by smoothing upward with the palms of the hands.

A little benzoin added to the bath will have an astringent effect upon the complexion. The astringent wash is often mentioned in this department, and it will take the shine away from the nose. Use a good quality of rice powder on the face.

To Keep the Face Clean

BLACKHEAD—Get a good complexion brush and a bar of castile soap. At bedtime use these, making a live soda with the soap. Rub the face in warm water. In the morning bathe with cold water and apply a good face powder.

With the dust-laden atmosphere of our cities, it is impossible to keep the skin clean, unless soap is used.

To counteract a drying effect of the soap, some good face cream should be used.

Violet Sachet

M. G. R.—It is a good idea to have perfumes, toilet waters and sachet powders all the same odor. A simple and delightful extract is made thus: Take eleven ounces of essence of violet, two ounces of essence of cassia, one ounce of tincture of musk, two ounces of strongest tincture of orris.

A violet sachet to be used with this is: Orris, ground, sixteen ounces; oil of bergamot, ten drops; oil of bitter almonds, seven drops; oil of rose, seven drops; tincture of musk, two and one-half drams. Mix the whole thoroughly.

To Darken a Braid

A. B. R.—Make a pot of strong tea, strain this thoroughly and let it cool. Wet the braid with warm water; when dry dip into the tea. The stronger the tea the darker it will make the braid.

Green Soap Shampoo

R. S. M.—Every two weeks shampoo your hair with green soap; it will put the scalp in a thoroughly healthy condition. If possible, take electric scalp massage treatment, which will help the old hair to be restored to vigor and which will create new growth as well.

Every night rub this hair grease into the scalp: Forty grains of resorcin, one-half ounce of water, one ounce of witch hazel and one ounce of alcohol.

Formula for Rose Jar

S. C.—To one pint of rose petals, which have been dried and pressed, add six ounces of sandal wood, six ounces of orris, one ounce of benzoin, one ounce of cloves, one ounce of tonka, one-half ounce of mace, twenty grains of musk, twenty drops of oil of rose, thirty drops of oil of lavender, one dram of oil of bergamot, one dram of oil of

Reduce the solids to particles of suitable size, then add the musk, then the oils. Mix well. You will find this most fragrant and delightful.

Boric Acid Ointment for Facial Eruptions

HELEN—Use this boric acid ointment for facial eruptions: Boric acid in fine powder, 30 grains; white wax, 30 grains; paraffine, 40 grains; oil of sweet almonds, one fluid ounce. Triturate the acid to a smooth paste with a portion of the oil of sweet almonds, melt the paraffine, wax and remainder of the oil together, and add the previous mixture. Keep the digestive organs active by drinking plenty of water and eating fresh fruits.

Cold Baths

EDITH M.—A woman of weak vitality cannot endure a cold bath. A hot bath facilitates and stimulates the normal combative processes of the body, while a cold bath, to produce the same result, water four times the amount of energy. In your run-down condition I certainly would not advise the continuation of the cold baths.

Moles

LOUISE—Moles are very disfiguring. Go to an electrolysis expert and have them removed with an electric needle. There is really no danger, and while a red scar will remain for a few weeks, it will gradually disappear, leaving no mark or memory on the treatment.

If, however, you do not favor the electric treatment, get instead 5 cents' worth of acetic acid. Coat the skin around the mole with a thick layer of some good face cream, but do not touch the mole with the cream. Then apply the acetic acid, on the point of a toothpick, to the mole until it turns white.

Repeat this treatment every night until the mole finally disappears, which will be in about a week. You must take great care to put cold cream on the adjoining skin before using the acid.

To Brighten Dull Red Hair

MAUDE—To brighten, dull red hair is not always beautiful, but give it a shine and glister and it is bewitching. This pleasant change may be brought about by shampooing with purified castile soap and two eggs beaten up together. Add a little salt of tartar to the first water. Rub thoroughly with a bath spray.

Freckles

N. R. S.—Recipes for removing freckles have appeared several times on this page, but here is another one: One ounce of lemon juice, two ounces of rosewater, one dram of borax, one-half ounce of alcohol. Apply to the face every night with a soft sponge.

The danger in using lemon juice and glycerine, which is an old-time freckle cure, while it may take them away, is that the use of pure glycerine on the face may turn the skin yellow. It will, also very often prove a hair grower of wonderful efficacy.

Another Side of Municipal Ownership

Here are some same remarks about municipal ownership which appeared in an English journal some time ago:
In Canada, as in the Mother Country, the spectre of municipal trading looms large and is seriously alarming economists. We have frequently referred to the mischief which may result to the country at large from municipal authorities experimenting in undertakings of the practical side of which they know but little. There is, of course, always the liability that successive authorities may repudiate their predecessors' actions and bring about a complete reversal in the policy of the council they displace. It is this absence of continuity of control that is such a danger in connection with municipal trading, for it need hardly be said that the condemnation by a municipal body of a costly installation introduced by its predecessors means so much wasted capital upon which the ratepayers may have to pay interest for 20 or 30 years. Even the sanest of municipalities is bowing down to this fetish of municipal ownership. Our Toronto correspondent last week called attention to a notable article in a contemporary concerning, in unmeasured terms, the power and electric light proposals in that city and pointing out the danger that will be incurred if they are carried out. We have repeatedly used the same arguments as are put forward by the contemporary whose candid remarks were quoted in our correspondent's letter, and we agree with the conclusions arrived at by the writer. Canadian municipalities are piling up debt at an alarming rate, and, although one is prepared to make an allowance for a certain amount of zeal on the part of councillors in a new town frequently quite unconvincing with municipal affairs, the energy with which bonds of little townships in the West have been placed on the market during the past few years is simply appalling.

The American Government has sent a representative to visit Canada in order to investigate the operation of the Industrial Disputes Act. The President will introduce legislation of a conciliatory nature which will have the effect of settling trade disputes by a board of arbitration along the lines of the Canadian Act.

Alberta a Nation

Hon. T. Mayne Daly
SOSTYLESALBERTA

At the Canadian Club Luncheon

Hon. T. Mayne Daly, K.C., of Winnipeg, in speaking at the Canadian Club luncheon at Calgary recently, had some very flattering remarks to make on Canada in general and of Alberta in particular.

Among other things he said:—
Prince Rupert's Land was what is now the north-west provinces. The papers said this land was not desirable, for it was a "vast tract of wilderness with small fertile spots here and there, but not worth the trouble of cultivating. People might with difficulty mature a few small potatoes and cabbages."

That was what they thought of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba 40 and 50 years ago.

In conclusion Mr. Daly said:—
"We should be proud of being Canadian than of belonging to the Empire. We have reasons for it."

Then he took his hearers through the provinces from the east coast to the west.

Of Alberta he said:—
"And here is Alberta with cattle on a thousand hills; with its world-famous 'Alberta Red' wheat, its coal and its other mineral wealth. You are a nation in yourselves with riches undeveloped that will make you the richest province in the world."

"Do you realize it? I am not extravagant.
"Do you, young man, acquit yourself as you should toward this great country. Despite the great natural wealth of this province there is no resource to be compared with its men, women, boys and girls.
"They are the stuff that makes country the only country in the world; the country over which the dear old flag flies, for which men have fought and died, and will do so again if necessary."

Possible Fatal Accident

Runaway in Lethbridge Ends in Injury to Babe

[Lethbridge Herald.]
Lethbridge, Feb. 27th.—A serious accident that will probably mean the death of a little baby took place the other morning on Redpath Street opposite J. E. Lethbridge's residence. Four people with two little babies with them were driving in from the country when a bicycle passed them causing the horses to shy with such violence as to overthrow the rig, throwing all the people on the road.
All escaped except Mrs. Whitfield's little six-months' old baby, which was seriously crushed that it is not expected to live many hours. The child was taken to Dr. McBurn's office, where the doctor did all that was possible for it. The mother and the babe are now at the Galt Hospital.

Ban on Secret Societies

The Orders named are the Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows, Masons and Sons of Temperance.

Taber Breezes

D. J. McMillan went to Lethbridge to-day on business.

Jas. Wilson is building a residence on Fourth Street South.

H. F. Annable was a Taber visitor to Lethbridge this week.

Present weather conditions would indicate that spring is here.

Mr. Robert Ivey, general merchant at Cardston, is in town to-day.

There will be a meeting of the Ward of Trade on Friday night.

The Government is going to bridge Chin Coulee. This will enable people to drive to Lethbridge without going away south.

A SNAP!—Three choice acre lots, residential section of the town; good well, splendid water, free flow. Apply to Moses Simpson. 52-4

Real estate men are busy these days revising their lists and generally preparing for a busy season. There will no doubt be a large amount of farm lands sold to incoming settlers this spring.

H. Sickle wishes to inform his patrons that he is now doing business in his new quarters, in the Bowden building on B Street. Shampooing, ladies will be attended to in these comfortable quarters on Tuesday afternoons. 51-4

Mr. John Barton, Mr. Jas. Shirts and Mr. Clarence Layton left this morning for Union, Oregon, on a visit to friends and to see the country. Frank Stewart also accompanied them. May they have a pleasant trip.

A theological student was sent on Sunday to supply a vacant pulpit in a Connecticut valley town. A few days later he received a copy of the weekly paper of that place with the following item marked "Rev.": "of the senior class at the Yale Seminary supplied the pulpit at the Congregational Church last Sunday, and the church will now be closed three weeks for repairs."

A brilliant address was delivered at Knox Church on Monday night in the interests of the Lord's Day Alliance by the Rev. W. M. Rochester, B.A., the alliance associate secretary for Western Canada. Mr. Rochester gave a most luminous exposition of the Dominion Lord's Day Act, maintaining that it is far from being a drastic measure; that its leading feature is to secure each one day of rest out of seven. Bishop VanOrman and Rev. Jones were also present and spoke earnestly of the value of the day of rest.

Ernest A. Munro, only son of the Rev. J. R. Munro, B.D., Taber, and a student at Dalhousie College, Halifax, has been awarded the Rhodes Scholarship, and will proceed probably early next autumn to England to pursue his studies at the University of Oxford. The scholarship involves a residence at the university for three years and entitles him to $1,500 a year for a like period. The despatch to the Manitoba Free Press announcing the award says he has had a distinguished scholastic and athletic career. When sixteen years of age he took high standing at the examination for academic rank in Nova Scotia, involving besides heavy requirements in English, Mathematics and Science, the study of a large number of Latin and Greek authors. Rev. Mr. Munro has just reason to be proud of the achievements of his son. The Free Press and his many friends extend most hearty congratulations.

Care of settlers' effects are commencing to arrive.

H. F. Annable has opened his real office in the Taber Hotel block.

Mr. Thos. S. Edwards of Ingoquois, Ont., is in town this week looking after his real estate interests.

J. C. Hobbs is moving his building next the Free Press Office to Front Street near Shoy Lee's restaurant.

Last week, when the weather was so mild, several farmers in the Lethbridge district commenced disking.

Ten days more will most likely see many of the farmers working on the land, and in three weeks seeding should be well advanced.

The season has now arrived when new settlers will be coming here almost daily. A cordial welcome awaits them from the people of Taber.

Mr. Garten, who has been working in the pines here, left to-day for his homestead at Grassy Lake. He has fifty-five acres broken and he purposes putting this in wheat.

We understand that the Taber Furniture Co. will open a branch furniture store at Grassy Lake in the near future, and that Mr. Venville will look after the business there.

Mr. Robt. Hardon and family, of Weyburn, Sask., arrived to-day and will immediately move to their homestead a few miles out of town. They brought some fine horses and cattle with them. Mr. Hardon and family will receive a welcome to the Taber district.

The Dominion Comedy Company played here three nights this week to very small houses. The attendance was by no means an evidence of the quality of the company or of the entertainment. People will not spend money during these close financial times in amusement. The Dominion Comedy Co. gave three nights of good entertainment, and were they to visit Taber when times are better we would bespeak for them a packed house every night.

See the notice to contractors in another column of this issue, calling for tenders on the new school building to be erected south of the C.P.R. Station. Since the first call for tenders was issued a very marked change in the condition of the money market has taken place which has made it very difficult to dispose of debentures at any other than ruinous prices; consequently the long delay.

The Trustees have, however, now accepted an offer to take the debentures at par with interest at the rate of 8% per annum. The Board decided, in view of the changed conditions, to borrow by debenture only $2,000 instead of $2,500, as authorized to do by the Commissioner of Education. Some changes have been made in the plan. Two feet have been added to the width of the house and an excavation decided on so that a furnace can be used for heating the building, but notwithstanding these changes the Board feel that, owing to the reduction in the price of lumber and labor, the cost should not be greater than first contemplated.

Bunch of Fine Cattle

Grass-Fed Steers Shipped from the Magrath District

"Talk about Sunny Southern Alberta," said Mr. McMullen, live stock agent of the C.P.R., the other day, "it is certainly demonstrated this year. I have been in the cattle business for many years, and I saw a sight the other day which I have never seen before.

"I saw 325 head of the fattest cattle I ever saw shipped to Winnipeg. They had been on the range all winter, had not been fed a spear of hay, and simply rustled for their feed. And they were the fattest bunch of cattle I ever saw. They were the primos of fat cattle."

This trainload of fat steers was a shipment from the McIntyre ranch of Magrath. They were owned by A. P. Day of Medicine Hat, who shipped them to the stock-yards at Winnipeg.

Mr. Eric Eeland of Raymond is dead. He had reached the advanced age of 87.

Brigadier-General Vidal, inspector-general of the Canadian militia force, died at Ottawa Monday.

Homestead entries in the Lethbridge Land Office during February amounted to 164. In February last year the number was 63.

The question of "Resolved that city life is preferable to country life" was warmly debated at Stirling the other day, the negative side winning.

Another new post office is to be opened up near Lethbridge. The office will be known as Sundial and Mr. C. K. Eagen will be postmaster.

J. P. Tudhope, M.P.P., the well-known carriage manufacturer of Orillia, has been renominated for the Ontario Legislature by the East Simcoe Liberals.

A man by the name of George Anderson was found dead in bed at the Atlantic Hotel in Calgary last Saturday. He died as the result of alcoholic excesses.

The Alberta Hotel at Cowley has undergone a change of management. Mr. C. S. Sedgwick has removed to his ranch, and Mr. Griffiths, of Pincher, has assumed charge.

Saskatchewan Legislature will be called to meet March 26th. It is expected that Premier Scott, who has been in Europe for his health, will return in time to be present.

A despatch from Durham, Ont., says:—"Dr. Jamieson, member for South Grey in the local Legislature, has been nominated Conservative candidate in the next general election."

Forty-eight solid Michigan farmers, with seven carloads of stock and effects, left Detroit for Western Canada Saturday under the direction of W. V. McInnes, the Canadian Government agent.

Orders have been received at Lethbridge that all crews on freight must run from Lethbridge to Coleridge and not go into Medicine Hat. Passenger and mixed crews will still continue to go into the Hat.

Cleveland, Ohio, has been visited by a most terrible fire, which caused the destruction of their public school buildings and a loss of one hundred and sixty-five lives. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

Word comes from St. John's, N.F., that as a result of a pick striking, buried cartridge at Nova Scotia Steel Company mines on Bell Island, Saturday, two men were killed, two others are reported dying and two more are badly injured.

A Peaceful Army

Victoria, Colonist:—"Canada" says that fully 50,000 men will be employed in railway building in the Dominion this year. This is one section of Canada's great army of development. We may not be making much of a showing in the way of pomp and paraphernalia of war, but 50,000 men building railways through new regions abounding in wealth is a pretty good substitute for a lot of good-looking fellows in uniform living at the expense of the taxpayers.

Crazy Doukhobors

Naked Men, Women and Children

Fort William, Ont., March 5th.—At the inquest on a Doukhobor who died recently the juryman decided to investigate the conditions of the house. They found men, women and children naked, many of them not having worn clothing since their arrival here. The verdict was that the man came to his death from pneumonia and starvation as a result of no medical attendance. A witness in the box stated that the Doukhobors were going to take the corpse into the bush and there leave it. No attempt at burial would have been made.—Lethbridge Herald.

Many Applications for Seed

Nearly 9,000 Apply for Grain DISTRIBUTION COMMENCED

Regina, Sask., March 2nd.—Up to and including to-day the Government Seed Grain Loan Department here have received 8,928 applications for seed grain, calling for the distribution of 369,227 bushels of wheat, 383,982 bushels of oats and 45,704 bushels of barley. Although February 29th had been fixed as a last day for receiving applications it has been decided to consider all applications, as grain can be despatched in time for seeding. The actual distribution of seed grain commenced on Friday, when 26 cars of wheat were cleaned and bagged and shipped from Winnipeg consigned to farmers at local stations. On Saturday 21 cars of wheat were shipped.

Many People Going to Farm at Crossfield

TRAINLOAD OF SETTLERS WILL ARRIVE ON MONDAY

Nearly 500 is Estimate

Crossfield, Alta., March 3rd.—(Special correspondence).—A large number of settlers are expected to arrive here next week. Last year the Calgary Colonization Co. sold a considerable amount of farming land east of the town to well-to-do people in North Dakota, who were desirous of changing their location. Some of these people, 104 families in number, are booked to reach Crossfield almost immediately, the date mentioned for their arrival being next Wednesday, March 4th. They will proceed to their new farms about 25 miles east. It is understood that many of these new people are Germans and a high class of settler throughout. A fair estimate would place the individuals in the special trainload about to arrive at about 450 people. They will be a welcome addition to Crossfield's tributary population.

A trolley collided with a milk wagon and sent the milk splashing on the pavement. Soon a crowd gathered. "Goodness!" exclaimed a man; "what an awful waste!" A very stout lady turned and glared at him. "Just mind your own business," she snapped.

Literary Society Time Extended for Seed Grain Applications

The largest gathering of the season was present at the meeting of the Literary Society in Knox Church last Friday evening.

The mission study was led by Mr. D. Williams, chapter five of the text book, Christian conquerors of India, being considered. In this chapter there is a review of the missionary labors of the Nestorians of the early centuries, of the Roman Catholics in the days of Francis Xavier, of the Protestant Danes, and finally of the British and American Churches. India has now a Christian population of 3,000,000.

The debate was then taken up, "Resolved that the privilege of the franchise be extended to women;" for the affirmative, Mrs. D. D. Jones, Mrs. Maclean and Mr. Holmes; for the negative, Messrs. C. W. Owen, D. Williams and J. A. Whitehouse. The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

The subject of debate for Friday the 13th will be, "Resolved that the Irish are cleverer as a race than the Scotch." An interesting discussion may be expected. All welcome.

Close at 10 O'Clock

Hotel Bars Must Close at That Hour in Alberta Instead of 11:30

A big deputation of hotel-keepers is at Edmonton endeavoring to prevent the 10 o'clock closing legislation being passed, but we understand that the Government is committed to the legislation, and that it will become law.

The time for making the extensions necessary to provide 45-room hotels in cities has been extended for one year, making it September, 1909, before the law goes into force.

Owing to the application form for seed grain being delayed in reaching farmers' hands, the time set for the completion of these applications, February 22nd, was found to be far too short. In consequence of this the time was extended to 1st March, but as this is again liable to prove too short a time it has been further extended to the 10th March. Every effort should be made, however, to have applications in as long before this date as possible in order to give ample opportunity for arranging for distribution.

The Seed Grain Act recently passed by the Legislature makes every secretary of a local improvement district a commissioner for taking affidavits in connection with applications. In the local improvement districts, where there are few officers are available, provision is made for Dominion land agents, sub-land agents, homestead inspectors, immigration agents, postmasters or members of the Royal North-West Mounted Police to take applications, and for this purpose they also have powers of commissioner for taking affidavits. Those who have not already made application should lose no time in doing so. In some districts where farmers are financially able to procure seed grain, but have not done so owing to the fact that no seed grain was available in their immediate neighborhood, arrangements have been made to supply such farmers with seed grain, but they will be expected to pay cash for same upon delivery.

All applications must be approved by the Council of the Local Improvement District and forwarded to the Dominion Lands Office, Edmonton, marked "Seed grain for distribution."

MONARCHS IN EXILE.

England the Haven of Political Refugees and Royal Fugitives.

England has always been the haven of political refugees, and royal pretenders and as a rule they have shown their appreciation of the country's hospitality by residing in the most beautiful spots.

But the Duke of Orleans overstepped the bounds some years ago and was violently and cruelly treated at the hands of the Queen Victoria. In the end, writes the London correspondent of Town and Country, he was obliged to leave the country and did not return until he made a most abject apology.

This little incident has not endeared him to the British people, who look upon him as a person of no account. But since his return he has behaved very well and has lived the life of an ordinary country gentleman, amusing himself intermittently with the issue of a proclamation to "his people" or a little royalist propaganda.

His father, when in exile in England, was more popular. So was Louis Philippe after the great revolution. Louis Napoleon, who lived in London in many social phases, once as a waiter and again as a member of the best society of the West end.

He never forgot the kindnesses that were extended to him during his stay here, and when he became Emperor of the French he made it his duty to come over with the Empress Eugenie and look up his old friends, which the French king did not do. He never liked, for when he came here to Windsor he was fairly tied up with court etiquette, which was impossible to escape.

He has recently sent a letter from Louis Napoleon, who is now in London from Windsor, in which he said: "I would much sooner run down to you and have a drink at the bar where we could smoke and chat and talk over the times when you and I were sworn in as special constables."

Napoleon III. came into his empire. I doubt if the Duke of Orleans will ever do so again. He is now a minister of the French government.

I used to know Peter Karageorgiev in the days when he was a simple, unassuming exile in Switzerland. He would talk occasionally of the French king, and he might say, "God's will have ruled, but he never expected the slightest idea that he would be crowned."

Suddenly Alexander was murdered and Peter was to triumph in a special train direct from Geneva to Belgrade and there he is now, a real emperor, covered with medals and the Powers and—wondering how long it will be before he exchanges his uniform for a military coat and the Kokorak, for his old villa at Genoa.

The life of a pretender is not an enviable one. I have often seen and pitied Don Carlos, the Spanish king who lives in France, and may be seen any day in the Grand Canal in London, and saw the Duke of Orleans, who is now in London, and saw the Duke of Orleans, who is now in London, and saw the Duke of Orleans, who is now in London.

And now, Uncle Ezra, she said just before the guests had begun to arrive, "please remember not to eat your pie with your knife. I wish you would tell that young woman that waits on the table to give me an extra spoon." Chicago Record-Herald.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

A new married couple was taking in the Jamestown Exposition. "There's our biggest man-of-war, dear," said the husband, pointing to one of the vessels in the harbor. Just then a little tug was puffing around the big ship.

"And in the little tug a tug-of-war?" asked the wife.—Success.

ENGLISH SPAVIN LINIMENT removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from the vessels in the harbor. Just then a little tug was puffing around the big ship.

And in the little tug a tug-of-war?" asked the wife.—Success.

Ladies and Gentlemen—Pitt is dead. Fox is dead. Gladstone is dead. Then, forgetting, he hesitated for a moment, and continued, "and I—I am beginning to feel pretty sick myself."—Lloyd's Weekly.

STORY OF WEALTHY MANITOBA FARMER

Tells How He Spent Three Thousand Dollars in Search of Health.

Physicians were entirely baffled by the case of Mr. Robert Squire of Shoal Lake, Man. He owns a beautiful acre of land in the west, and said he was willing to let it all be restored to health. His trouble started with an ordinary cold that was neglected. Let Mr. Squire tell his own story:

"I have spent over three thousand dollars in my search for health; have travelled from place to place, looking for suitable climate. I came to the conclusion that climate made no difference in curing throat or lung troubles. At the health resort consumptives died there at any place else. I determined to find a home remedy. I think I tried every one of the so-called cures for consumption. The only remedy that ever helped me was Paychine, and a significant fact about Paychine is that it is not a medicine like the others, but specially for throat and lung diseases. Paychine was the last remedy I tried, and I wish it had been the first. My case was a very bad one and no hope was held out by any of the medical men that I would get well."

A friend advised me to use Paychine. The first few bottles gave me great relief from coughing, and seemed to ease the pain in the lungs. Within a month the cough and the sweats had disappeared, and I had greatly regained my strength. I used ten bottles, but my case grew worse and I didn't budge the cost, for I was completely cured after medical men had given up. My lungs are now sound, and no sign of disease whatever is apparent."

"Shoal Lake, Man."

Thousands of others have borne similar testimony to the power of Paychine to not only cure coughs, colds, grippe, catarrh, bronchitis, chills, night sweats, but also consumption and all wasting diseases. It strengthens the stomach, aids digestion, and builds up the system, which was a never-failing remedy.

Paychine, pronounced Si-Keen, is for sale at all drug stores at 50c and $1.00 per bottle, or at Dr. T. A. Slocom, Limited, 179 King Street West, Toronto.

"All that you are, my friend," said the lecturer, singing out an elderly man sitting in a front seat, who appeared to be deeply interested, "all that you are, I repeat, you owe to Paychine, and to my friend, who is now in London, and saw the Duke of Orleans, who is now in London, and saw the Duke of Orleans, who is now in London."

"Go!" exclaimed the elderly man, turning red with indignation. "I am not a dealer in drugs, with that arm in my life, and I don't owe them anybody else a blamed cent."—Chicago Tribune.

A Cure for Fever and Ague—Paychine, the powerful medicine, is used for use in any climate, and they will be found to preserve their powers in any climate. In fever and ague they act upon the secretions and neutralize the poison which has found its way into the blood. They also remove the impurities which find entrance into the system through drinking water or food, and if used as a preventive fever is avoided.

Some years ago there lived in Perth, Scotland, a man of convivial habits, well known as Jamie. One dark night an acquaintance found Jamie lying at the foot of an outside stair.

"Is that you, Jamie?" asked the acquaintance in a voice of the greatest astonishment.

"Aye, it's me," replied Jamie in a tone of complete resignation.

"Have you fa'en down the stair?" was the next question.

"Aye! I fell down; but I was comin' down whether or no!"—Argonaut.

THE QUEEN'S MAIDS OF HONOR.

Four of Them, All Young and Pretty—Their Duties at Court.

Queen Alexandra's household consists of only fifteen ladies and six men, in striking contrast with that of the King, which includes more than a hundred individuals.

Queen Victoria had eight maids of honor, of whom two were always in waiting. Queen Alexandra's known desire for a less stately life has prompted her to reduce the number to four.

Queen Alexandra delights to surround herself with quite young, bright and brave people, and all four maids are still in their early youth. The tradition is that these young women invariably marry well at an early date.

Their position at court brings them into contact with highly eligible bachelors, and an old custom dating back for centuries prompts the royal mistress to provide a dowry of £1,000 to each of the maids of honor as a great event in the London season.

The position of the maids of honor is a room for the presentation of debutantes and those who have entered at an early date. In the royal procession to the throne, the maids proceed immediately after the royal highness, and are seated in the royal carriage.

This applies also to the state occasions, which are most formal and elaborate. The maids of honor are seated at night and last for two hours. They must also be in readiness at any moment to attend the royal highness, as a faithful order to even great artists, as she is a brilliant painter.

The maids of honor are also artists, and are to be inspected, and a multitude of royal duties. In all of which the maids of honor are to be inspected, and a multitude of royal duties.

MR. AND MRS. DEAN.

The Surprize They Gave a Roomful of Blackguards.

In the early part of the nineteenth century Vauxhall was the resort of many respectable persons, especially of the young of the country to see London sights. During one season it was infested by a band of roughs, who made it their occupation to insult and molest the most decent people, especially any whom they guessed to be country visitors. They became such a nuisance that several men about town, among whom were Lord Alvanley and Keppel Craven, laid a plot to get rid of them.

They hired Mendons, the famous prize fighter, and dressed him up as a dean, with a shovel hat and apron. Another prize fighter, a short man, was dressed up as a middle aged lady and passed as the dean's wife, and one evening they were seated at Vauxhall in a conspicuous position to watch the roughs. It was not long before the old fashioned, contrived pat attracted the attention of the gang, who assailed them with every kind of coarse railing and insult, all of which they bore very meekly.

At length one of the persecutors, George the bolder by impulse, stepped up to the dean and squinted an oblique eye into his face. On this the dean, rising said in a meek quiet tone, "Really, sir, but the dean's wife is waiting, and I must put a stop to this." With that his hat went one way and his coat another, and followed by his wife he disappeared into the middle of the party, hitting out in all directions. Filled with astonishment and terror, some fled and some tried to show fight, but the dean's wife and the prize fighters were too swift for the traces to last long.

All the time Lord Alvanley and his friends, who were in the house, were calling out in delight: "Go it, Mr. Dean! Give it 'em, Dean!" An effectual stop was thus put to the assaults.

A Good Sister.

"But," said the girl's father, "what qualifications have you? What is there about you to make you consider yourself worthy of my daughter? Why do you think I ought to accept you as a son-in-law?"

"Since you plan me down to it, I will tell you candidly," the young man replied, "that I have never had a very high opinion of my qualifications. I am here strictly because I hate to give pain. Your daughter accepted me before I had a chance to finish what I had started to say, which was not what she seemed to think it was going to be. If you do not think I am worthy of her and if you are convinced that I am not the man you desire for a son-in-law, I will inform you right now that I am one of the best men you ever saw."—Chicago Record-Herald.
